WHAT ARE AUTHENTIC FIRST PEOPLES TEXTS?

Authentic First Peoples texts are historical or contemporary texts that

- present authentic First Peoples voices (i.e., are created by First Peoples or through the substantial contributions of First Peoples)

 - depict themes and issues that are important within First Peoples cultures (e.g., loss of identity and affirmation of identity, tradition, healing, role of family, importance of Elders, connection to the land, the nature and place of spirituality as an aspect of wisdom, the relationships between individual and community, the importance of oral tradition, the experience of colonization and decolonization)

 - incorporate First Peoples story-telling techniques and features as applicable (e.g., circular structure, repetition, weaving in of spirituality, humour).

INTRODUCTION

The past two decades have seen a dramatic increase in the number of resources with a First Peoples theme or focus aimed at young people. This guide has been created to help BC educators make appropriate decisions about which of these resources might be appropriate for use with their students. The annotated listings provided in this guide identify currently available authentic First Peoples texts that students can work with to meet provincial standards related to literacy as well as a variety of specific subject areas.

The 2nd edition of this guide is intended to help BC educators introduce resources that reflect First Peoples knowledge and perspectives into classrooms in respective ways. The inclusion of authentic First Peoples content into classrooms

- ▶ supports all students in developing an understanding of the significant place of First Peoples within the historical and contemporary fabric of this province and
- ▶ provides culturally relevant materials for Indigenous learners in British Columbia.

This guide lists resources (story and informational text) written for a student audience. It is recognized that a rich learning experience for students includes opportunities to work with oral, visual, and written text.

THE RESOURCE EVALUATION PROCESS

The annotated list of resources provided in this guide was developed by BC educators. As a part of the process:

- ▶ a resource evaluation tool was developed (see Appendix: Evaluation Form)
- ▶ FNEESC issued a call to BC and Canadian publishers to distributors to submit materials for evaluation
- ▶ FNEESC convened teams of BC educators to evaluate the submitted resources according to the criteria in the Evaluation Form.

USING THIS GUIDE

The Resource Annotations section of this guide contains detailed information about all of the First Peoples resources evaluated and approved by FNEESC for use in K-9 classrooms.

For an at-a-glance listing of all resources, see the next section of this guide, Index of Resources.

Publisher contact information for ordering specific resources can be found in the Publishers and Distributors section later in this guide.

CHOOSING AND USING RESOURCES LISTED IN THIS GUIDE

The resource annotations provided in this guide have been compiled using the information captured on the FNEESC resource evaluation forms. The annotations are presented in alphabetical order (by title). When interpreting the annotations, please keep the following points in mind:

- ▶ The “reading level” identified within each annotation is based on the professional opinion of the evaluating educators, rather than on any quantitative readability analysis tools. Users are accordingly encouraged to treat these “reading level” designations as guidelines only, recognizing that resources can be used as read-aloud texts with younger grades or for various other teaching purposes with older grades.
- ▶ The “subject area” designation provided for each annotation is a guideline only, identifying the most obvious curriculum connections to the book’s content. Users may find additional curricular applications for many of these resources

▶ RESOURCE USE APPROVALS

The resources listed in this guide were reviewed under the auspices of FNEESC, not the Ministry of Education. Teachers in the K-12 public system are encouraged to follow their school district’s process of approval of student resources.

(e.g., illustrations in picture books can be studied from a visual arts perspective, stories can be used as readers' theatre or other drama forms in drama classes, bilingual books can be used in First Nations languages classes).

- ▶ Although inclusion of a resource in this guide is an indication that it meets criteria for designation as an authentic First Peoples text, there may be caveats associated with using it in the classroom. Accordingly, where aspects of the text might make it unsuitable for certain purposes or require an educator to help interpret, explain, or qualify content issues for students, this has been indicated by means of "Caution" notes provided as part of the annotation.

Core Competencies

Virtually all of the resources included in this guide directly support the development of the Positive Personal and Cultural Identity core competency. A few directly support the development of other Core Competencies as well, but in most cases the capacity of resources to support Core Competency development relies on guidance and instruction provided by teachers. More information can be found at <https://curriculum.gov.bc.ca/competencies>.

FURTHER TEACHER RESOURCE MATERIAL

In addition to the many student resources listed in this guide, there is much material that is not specifically designed for student use, but that teachers can draw upon to inform their practice and promote discussion with respect to First Nations education. Of particular note at time of publication are the following:

- ▶ our FNESC website, www.fnesc.ca
- ▶ the First Peoples Principles of Learning chart (available at <https://firstpeoplesprinciplesoflearning.wordpress.com/>)
- ▶ the Truth and Reconciliation: Calls to Action on Education poster (a poster highlighting some of the 94 recommendations and calls to action of Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission, available from Native Northwest – see page 172 of their catalogue at <http://nativenorthwest.uberflip.com/i/627024-2016-catalog-onlinefinal>)

THEMES & TOPICS

traditional knowledge, trickster, ways of learning

PUB DATE 1996PAGES 16DESCRIPTION

Txamsm is the Tsimshian transformer and trickster character. Numerous tales of Txamsm's adventures are told throughout the Tsimshian Nation. Some are origin stories, telling how he brought light, or the tides, or the stars, to humans. Others are tales of his voraciousness, his foolishness, and his greed. Still others relate his many adventures as he travelled about the world.

TITLES IN THIS SERIES

Txamsm Brings Light to the World – Wilt Dagoydiksdit Txamsm Goy'pa Da Ha'lidzoox (In this famous narrative, Txamsm is in his transformer mode. He changes form at will and helps bring order to the world by bringing light to the people of the world. The short episode at the end, in which we learn how the labret originated, shows how this narrative is part of a much longer cycle of stories.)

Txamsm and Chief Kingfisher – Txamsm Dit Sm'ooygit Ts'iyoolk (This story teaches a lesson about greed and truth. Txamsm tries very hard to be a good host, but he bungles it. Chief Kingfisher treats him to a wonderful feast using magic, but when Txamsm attempts to copy him, he fails.)

Txamsm and the Children – Txamsm Dit Kaba'guu'k (In this story, Txamsm shows his greedy nature, and it gets him into trouble. He wants an easy way to get some food, but he fails again.)

Txamsm Visits Chief Echo – Ts'ilaykdis Txamsm Sm'oogit Dildaalt (In this story, Txamsm shows again his greedy nature. He thinks he can take the highly-prized goat fat without being seen, but the invisible women in Chief Echo's house spoil his scheme.

DESCRIPTION

A Salish Coyote story, Beaver Steals Fire recounts how the animals worked together to obtain fire and help prepare the world for habitation by humans. Beaver Steals Fire is an ancient and powerful tale springing from the hearts and experiences of the Salish people of Montana. Steeped in the rich and culturally vital storytelling tradition of the tribe, this beautifully illustrated tale teaches both respect for fire and awareness of its significance, themes particularly relevant today.

FEATURES

- ▶ A note to the reader at the beginning asks those who use Beaver Steals Fire in the classroom or others who read it aloud to tell or discuss the story only in winter, when snow is on the ground, as this is a strongly ingrained part of tribal seasonal tradition.
- ▶ includes a Brief Guide to Written Salish and the International Phonetic Alphabet

PUB DATE 1990PAGES 44DESCRIPTION

Byron through the Seasons is a story told by Grandfather Jonas and imagined by his grandson, Byron. The balloon diagram in each picture represents the symbolic journey taken by Byron as he listens to stories of what Dene life is like during the four seasons of the year.

This Dene-English story book was produced by the students and teachers of Ducharme Elementary School in La Loche, Saskatchewan, with assistance from local advisors and elders. Together, they wrote the story, translated it, and worked on the pictures. Their goal was to highlight some aspects of Dene culture that were vital in the past and are still important today. They wanted to show the continuity of a genuine and successful way of life, and emphasize culturally significant events and attitudes

FEATURES

- ▶ text is in both Dene and English

DESCRIPTION

This series consists of six health-oriented books for beginning readers. Key health considerations are identified (nutrition, exercise, rest/sleep) and their importance is explained. Titles in the series are:

Eat, Run, and Live Healthy A school or public health nurse visits a class and she and the teacher discuss with students the importance of nutrition, exercise, and rest/sleep. Also, diabetes — an issue of growing concern in many northern and First Nations communities — is mentioned.

Eyes, Ears, Nose, and Mouth When a young boy accidentally pushes a bead up into his nose, his mother takes him to see a doctor. The doctor takes the opportunity to conduct a check-up, and she and the boy discuss appropriate self-care practices to ensure continued good health of eyes, ears, nose, and mouth.

Healthy Choices, Healthy Lives A child asks his mother about alcohol and cigarette use and she welcomes his questions, explaining the choices adults make. Topics covered include avoiding the use of alcohol and tobacco during pregnancy.

Living Safe, Playing Safe Three episodes featuring different characters focus on Safety at School, Safety in the Kitchen, and Safety on the Playground. In the first two episodes, adults and children discuss dangers to watch out for. In the third episode, a young boy hurts himself at the playground, and his mother takes him to get treatment at the hospital.)

Looking After Me Baby quail talks about what he has learned from his family. Topics discussed include listening skills, appropriate expression of feelings, personal space, staying safe, responding to inappropriate touch or behaviour from strangers, trust, and family relationships.)

Taking Care of Mother Earth A grandmother spends an afternoon doing household “chores” with her grandson. In a light-hearted way, she teaches him about composting, recycling, and growing/gathering/preserving food for the family.)

PUB DATE 1995PAGES 128DESCRIPTION

Chiwid was a Tsilhqot'in woman who spent most of her adult life "living out" in the hills and forests around Williams Lake, BC. Chiwid is the story of this remarkable woman told in the vibrant voices of Chilcotin old-timers, both First Nations and non-First Nations. The range of interview sources present a variety of perspectives on Chiwid and her life, providing opportunities for students to compare diverse viewpoints.

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Violence — several interviewees describe domestic violence that Chiwid experienced
- ▶ Language — the term "whiteman" is used
- ▶ Safety — the main character spent the majority of her life in solitude and living off of the land. In many cases, the weather is extreme and teachers should let students know that they should not try this without the appropriate knowledge and experience

PUB DATE 2006PAGES 134DESCRIPTION

At Christmas time in Northern Saskatchewan, three Cree kids visit their Moshum's (grandfather's) cabin to learn about traditional ways and experience a life-changing adventure. The kids, who have never lived in the bush, visit their Moshum's cabin to prepare for Christmas. But food is scarce this year, and Moshum is afraid Christmas may have to be cancelled. The kids decide to help by going hunting, but they don't understand how unprepared they are or what danger they're in. They get lost, forcing Moshum to come after them. But when they find him collapsed in the bush, it is the children who have to bring Moshum safely home. The experience helps them to grow in skill and understanding and to become more mature. They learn that they can benefit from two kinds of knowledge — traditional learning through their elders and the things they learn in school.

This message-laden novel provides a portrait of urban Cree children who learn about the culture and way of life of their elders.

PUB DATE 2009PAGES 304DESCRIPTION

Set against the backdrop of the confusing events surrounding the English colonization of British Columbia, and an 1863 naval assault on Kuper Island, Counting on Hope tells the story of two girls whose lives are profoundly changed when their two cultures collide.

Alternating between free verse and prose, the novel follows the girls' individual storylines before, during and after their meeting. The author captures the wonder and joy with which Hope and Letia develop their friendship. She also describes the tragic events, suspicion, fear and confusion that characterize so many early encounters between Europeans and the First Peoples. Ultimately a story of hope, this sensitively drawn depiction of innocence lost and wisdom hard-won follows Hope and Letia out of childhood, off their island paradise and into the complex realities of an adult world.

FEATURES

- ▶ a Teachers' Guide for the novel is available online at sononis.com/tg147.pdf

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Language - the term "Indian" is used throughout when characters are speaking from the settlers' point of view; as explained in the historical note at the end of the book, the author uses this term in context, representing historical accuracy in the terminology used at the times

Lawrence just has to make it through his final year of residential school and then he will never have to set foot in this horrible place again. But despite his best efforts to stay out of trouble, he finds himself in a few frightening predicaments. An escape attempt fails and a stolen gun misfires. Fortunately, his friendships and the tutelage of Sister Theresa help make his last school days bearable.

When he returns home, Lawrence is not yet a man but no longer a boy. He struggles to find acceptance in a community that seems to have forgotten him. He tries a few different jobs and makes a name for himself as a hard worker. With increased confidence and the money he has saved up, he leaves Slave Lake to fulfill his dream of living in the mountains.

Goodbye Buffalo Bay is based on the author's life at a residential school.

THEMES & TOPICS

performance, traditional knowledge, diversity, belonging

PUB DATE 2008PAGES 44DESCRIPTION

Children of all ages will be able to relate to the main character in Jenneli's Dance. Jenneli is the child who doesn't seem to excel at anything, the child who feels as if she isn't good at anything. She is often the victim of bullying and teasing. Jenneli is shy and feels different from the other children at school. Her hair and skin are darker, her eyes are an unusual colour, and the bannock in her lunch is different from the bread in the other students' lunches. She is also certain that other students are not even aware of her favourite music: fiddle music. No wonder Jenneli deals with low self-esteem.

Jenneli's Dance is a story that illustrates the importance of recognizing and appreciating each other's differences. It highlights the need to expose children to a broad range of skills, talents and cultural traditions to develop that appreciation of diversity.

PUB DATE 1999, 2013PAGES 28DESCRIPTION

Little Duck lives alone in a muddy swamp close to a camp of Plains Cree People. When he observes the Cree peoples' beauty and grace, the lonely duck decides he would like to be a Plains Cree dancer. The Little Duck is an engaging story with wide appeal. Because the desire to fit in with one's surroundings matters to most people, the story transcends cultural boundaries. The book contains the important message that we should be striving to improve our sense of self-worth.

DESCRIPTION

The Raven Tales Series is a set of graphic novels based on the screenplays for a series of animated videos. A few are adaptations of traditional stories, while others are originals produced in the style of traditional stories. Series creators worked with various tribal councils during the development of these materials. The following are titles reviewed in this series. Other titles in this series are commendable, though users are advised that some might not be deemed authentic according to the identified criteria:

The titles are:

- How Raven Stole the Sun* — based on a Haida traditional story
- Raven and the First People* — based on a Haida traditional story
- Great Bear Rock* — based on a Kwakwaka'wakw traditional story

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Other - some may view the imagery in some of the other books as problematic, as all First Peoples are portrayed as visually similar, despite stories being drawn from different cultures; depictions do not acknowledge the diversity of First Peoples across the Canada; teachers are advised to address this concern with students

DESCRIPTION

The title of this collection of five Gitxsan stories was chosen to thank and pay tribute to the Gitxsan storytellers of the past, some of whom were the author's mentors and teachers as she was growing up and learning the art of storytelling. Returning the Feathers includes four traditional stories: the origin of the Gitxsan people; how the blue jay and the mosquito came to live in northwestern BC; and the time when the porcupine first discharged its quills. The fifth in the anthology is an original story, inspired by the appearance of an egret at the author's smokehouse. These stories serve to connect the author to her ancestors, and give readers a taste of the rich cultural heritage of the Gitxsan people.

CAUTIONS

PUB DATE 1995PAGES 32DESCRIPTION

When the Grand Coulee Dam was constructed, the community on the banks of the river was forced to move away from its ancestral land and the people lost their homes and many traditional practices. The story opens as the great-grandmother, Toopa, is about to leave her home, and she tells her great-granddaughter of their old ways of life that could not continue, such as salmon fishing, seasonal nomadic practices, and trading with other peoples.

FEATURES

- ▶ intertwining real history with a fictionalized narrative
- ▶ strong factual basis for the story

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Safety — Toopa waited until the last minute before leaving her home when the lake began to flood.
- ▶ Ethical/Legal - Students may need some explanation about land settlements and compensation (Arrow Lakes tribe was not compensated for the loss of their lands until fifty years after the dam's construction).

Alfred's family sailed from Gilford Island to isolated Kingcome Inlet to attend a forbidden potlatch. His parents forbade him to attend so he wouldn't be apprehended if they were raided by the authorities. Alfred sneaked inside to watch and recognized the Hamatsa. Beautifully written and incorporating fantastic, creative illustrations of Coast Salish designs, this book shows students the relevance of traditional practices.

DESCRIPTION

This graphic novel, a compilation of four shorter graphic novels first published separately, follows one Plains Cree family from the early 19th century to the present day. Although some details may reinforce established stereotypical portrayals of First Nations peoples, the content for the most part aligns well with historical fact.

FEATURES

- ▶ engaging and easy to read
- ▶ the narrative line in this graphic novel is not always easy to follow (single discrete frames, juxtaposing material from differing time periods with some “jumps” between one and the next)

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Violence — accounts of residential schooling portray a priest hitting a child and allude to the sexual abuse of a child
- ▶ Language — derogatory comments about First Peoples as savages
- ▶ Safety — allusions to, or depictions of, suicide (via overdose, hanging), alcoholism, addiction, death of children due to accident, and death via smallpox are all part of this story

DESCRIPTION

This is the true story of Shannen Koostachin and the people of Attawapiskat, a Cree community in Northern Ontario, who have been fighting for a new school since the late 1970s when a fuel leak contaminated their original school building. In 2008 thirteen-year-old Shannen and the other students at J.R. Nakogee Elementary are tired of attending class in portables that smell and don't keep out the freezing cold winter air. They make a YouTube video describing the poor conditions, and their plea for a decent school gains them attention and support from community leaders and children across the country. Inspired, the students decide to turn their grade-eight class trip into a visit to Ottawa to speak to the Canadian government. Once there, Shannen speaks passionately to the politicians about the need to give First Nations children the opportunity to succeed. The following summer, Shannen is nominated for the International Children's Peace Prize. Her passion and that of the other students makes politicians stand up and take notice, and becomes a rallying point for the community and for the country.

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Other - although the story is true, much of the dialogue has been reconstructed (i.e., fictionalized), drawing on the recollections of Shannen's family and others involved and with their blessing (sadly Shannen herself was killed in a car crash in 2010)

In just four days young Shi-shi-etko will have to leave her family and all that she knows to attend residential school. She spends her last days at home treasuring the beauty of her world — the dancing sunlight, the tall grass, each shiny rock, the tadpoles in the creek, her grandfather's paddle song. Her mother, father and grandmother, each in turn, share valuable teachings that they want her to remember. And so Shi-shi-etko carefully gathers her memories for safekeeping.

Richly hued illustrations complement this gently moving and poetic account of a child who finds solace all around her, even though she is on the verge of great loss.

PUB DATE 2008PAGES 32DESCRIPTION

A sequel to Shi-shi-etko, Shin-chi's Canoe tells the story of Shi-shi-etko's younger brother Shin-chi and his experience during his first year at residential school. In this haunting and beautifully illustrated story, Shin-chi is not excited to go to school, unlike his sister Shi-shi-etko. Much more of the realities of residential school are shown in this story — hungry children, missing home, hard work, haircuts, and scalps washed with kerosene are not glossed over, but are dealt with in an age-appropriate way. But Shin-chi finds solace in his toy canoe, friendship, nature, and the memory of his grandfather's prayer song.

CAUTIONS

- ▶ Socio-economic — students at the residential school are very hungry, and are fed “porridge and burnt toast” while the teachers eat “bacon, eggs, and potatoes”
- ▶ Violence — Shi-shi-etko remembers her hair being cut and her head being washed with kerosene
- ▶ Ethical/Legal — some of the children at the residential school steal food
- ▶ Safety — children are transported to the residential school in the back of a cattle truck

A young bison growing up on the plains in the late 1800s faces peril at the hands of soldiers, who are destroying the great buffalo herds as a way to control First Nations. He is befriended by a First Nations warrior and a European hunter who try to save him and his herd from annihilation.

This book introduces readers to an era in Canadian history through a unique perspective. In eight easy-to-read chapters, the devastation of the buffalo is portrayed in a simple, straightforward manner. Cyclical aspects of life are evident even in the black-and-white illustrations where a circle is incorporated into almost every delicately drawn depiction.

DESCRIPTION

This memoir deals with 10-year-old Margaret Pokiak's return to her home community in the arctic following two years at a residential school run by the church. Coming ashore, Margaret spots her family, but her mother barely recognizes her, screaming, "Not my girl." Margaret realizes she is now marked as an outsider. She has forgotten the language and stories of her people, and she now finds the food her mother prepares unfamiliar and displeasing. Slowly, Margaret must relearn her language and her family's way of living. Along the way, she discovers how important it is to remain true to the ways of her people—and to herself.

In many First Peoples cultures, the 13 cycles of the moon represent the changing seasons and the passage of time. Each moon has its own special name, and many cultures recognize a story that says the 13 scales on Old Turtle’s back hold the key to these moons. This book depicts this belief by presenting 13 poems that take readers through the year, from the “Moon of Popping Trees” — when the cottonwoods crack with frost, to the “Big Moon” of the Abenaki. The book’s effective design juxtaposes verse with eye-catching illustrations depicting dramatic seasonal changes.
